About Me

I am a junior Fullstack Developer and Digital Product Manager committed to developing innovative and effective technology solutions. I am currently a Grade 11 student at a Vocational High School (SMK), where I actively learn and sharpen my skills in software development and digital product management.

I have a strong interest in sharing knowledge and experiences with my classmates, as well as collaborating on challenging projects. With a combination of technical expertise and managerial skills, I am determined to contribute to the creation of useful and high-quality digital products.
